Dear Prospective Steadicam student,

STEADICAM® SILVER WORKSHOP 25- to 27- March 2013

The Tiffen International Steadicam Silver workshop is a great opportunity to work with the latest genuine Steadicam systems and have instruction from Tiffen staff or approved instructors and also follow a syllabus approved by Steadicam inventor Garrett Brown.

The workshop will run from 9.30 a.m. on 25- March to 16.30 on the 27- March and will be held at the SAE World Headquarters in Oxford, England, United Kingdom (pictured above).

The price of the workshop includes the workshop itself, use of equipment, a snack lunch but no accommodation or main meals.

The requirement for students is simply that they have camera experience and they are reasonably healthy (please feel free to discuss this if you have any doubt). Students should also be aware that Steadicam operation is a physical activity and they will probably get hot therefore dress for comfort, ankle-supporting trainers make ideal footwear, layers work well for colder weather.

The total price for the workshop is £720.00 including VAT or €900.00 including VAT. (VAT will apply if you are coming from outside of the UK as a service performed within the UK however you may be able to reclaim it locally). We do not operate a deposit scheme for SILVER workshops, to apply please send the full amount along with a COMPLETED application. Your place will be confirmed upon receipt of both by Tiffen International.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact us using the details above.
